

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Weather Probabilities, July 26, 1881.—For the Middle Atlantic States partly cloudy weather, possibly local rains in northern portion, southerly, varying to westerly winds, stationary, followed by rising barometer and stationary or lower temperature.

THE STEAMER ARROWSMITH.—After four days' work by a large number of workmen upon the steamer Arrowsmith she was yesterday morning turned over to the supervising steamboat inspectors for an examination, and they found everything in proper order. A force of twelve men were engaged to hurry up repairs. The result of their labors were two new pumps and new wheels in the wheels, while the machinery was carefully overhauled and made tight. After concluding their examination the inspectors granted a permit for the steamer to start on a trip, in which they certified that she was provided with boats, buoys, flares, lights, axes and 700 life preservers, she should be allowed to carry passengers, but not to exceed 700 passengers, to points between Washington and the lower river landings. Captain Barker, who resigned from the steamer, has been succeeded by Captain Thomas H. Ross, who was the commander of the vessel when the steamer was procured from New York. The Arrowsmith resumed her regular trips this morning leaving for St. Louis, and in the afternoon she will be under the superintendence of Captain Barker, who will be in command of the steamer on the day of her arrival in Washington on the day of her arrival in response to a telegram from the Treasury Department. The object of his visit was to examine the steamer Arrowsmith, a number of complaints about her condition having been received at the Department. He made a thorough examination of her on Saturday and yesterday, and says that her boilers and hull are perfectly sound and good. The vessel came out from the United States navy yard about two months ago, where her boilers and machinery had been thoroughly overhauled and was inspected by the local inspectors about six weeks ago. The only fault found yesterday was in some of her equipments.
